Hi

Wow, it's the end of June already! I hope you've had fun getting your 'water' images ready ... it's everywhere, it's just a matter of working out how best to portray your vision of this 'fluid of life' within your images.

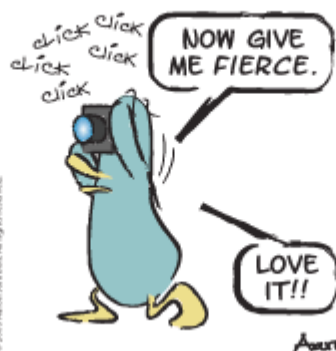

I've mentioned it in the newsletter – but double check the date for our next meeting: it's the 16th July (the third Thursday).

I'll leave you with a quote from a photographer I've been reading on the web, "There's no getting around it. Patience is the most important tool in the photographer's tool kit. You don't very often get the opportunity to just stumble upon a perfect shot. You have to study the subject, find out when the light is right, decide where you can position yourself to get the best angle and then wait on the shot. The problem is that too many photographers are only interested in the low-hanging fruit. Metaphorically speaking, the really great stuff is always at the top of the tree. No matter what kind of photography you practice – patience is required."

Have fun ... and be patient.

Cheers, Paul

Websites of the month

- http://theonlinephotographer.typepad.com/the_online_photographer/2009/06/depthoffield-hell.html - a nice summary of 'depth of field'. There's a bit of waffle at the start – just skip ahead to the 'End-Around' subheading.

Quote of the month

"A photograph never grows old. You and I change, people change all through the months and years but a photograph always remains the same. How nice to look at a photograph of mother or father taken many years ago. You see them as you remember them. But as people live on, they change completely. That is why I think a photograph can be kind."
